

June 27, 2001

D.C. Job Centers Criticized

District officials say the city's job centers are nationally renowned. But a coalition of social service groups released a report today claiming the centers do a poor job helping walk-in clients get information quickly, and serving Latinos in general.

Listen in RealAudio.

Close this window