

Wider Opportunities for Women

Wider Opportunities for Women and The National Council of Women's Organizations

In cooperation with Rep. Lynn Woolsey,
Rep. Lois Capps and Rep. Cathy McMorris Rodgers,
Co-Chairs of the Congressional Caucus for Women's Issues

Bring you a Congressional briefing on

Economic Security for Women across the Generations: Workforce Development Issues

Agenda

Moderator: Joan Kuriansky, J.D., Executive Director, Wider Opportunities for Women

Remarks: Representative Lynn Woolsey, Sponsor of "The Balancing Act of 2007"

Panel: Heidi Hartmann, Ph.D., President, Institute for Women's Policy Research

Susan Crandall, Ph.D., Former Research Director, Crittenton Women's Union of Boston, and Author of "New Directions in Workforce Development: Do They Lead to New Gains for Women?" New England Journal of Public Policy, June 2007

Sarah Reynolds, AA Train Mechanic, Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA), and Graduate of WOW's Non-Traditional Occupation Program

Barbara Butrica, Ph.D., Senior Research Associate, Income Benefit and Policy Center, the Urban Institute

Susan Rees, Director of National Programs and Policy, Wider Opportunities for Women

This is a nonpartisan event developed especially for Congressional staff members who are working with their Members to develop policies responsive to the needs of women and families in their states and districts. The National Council of Women's Organizations is a 210-member coalition of national organizations concerned about women's issues. As co-chairs of the Committee on Congressional Briefings of the National Council of Women's Organization's Domestic Priorities Task Force, Legal Momentum and the Institute for Women's Policy Research are hosting a series of four Congressional Staff Briefings in 2007. This briefing, organized by Wider Opportunities for Women, will examine the policy implications of the workforce situation of women across the generations.